

The 3rd Annual Roundtable for Black Feminist and Womanist Theory

CALL FOR PAPERS

Dartmouth College | November 3-5, 2022
Hanover, NH | In-person & Virtual

The Roundtable invites scholars, artists, and activists across career stages, disciplines, and affiliations to submit proposals for scholarly papers on any topic rooted in Black Feminist and/or Womanist traditions.

Keynote Speakers:

Tiffany King

Associate Professor of Women, Gender & Sexuality
University of Virginia

Omise'eke Tinsley

Professor of Black Studies
University of California, Santa Barbara

Featuring an Invited Talk by:

Lindsey Stewart

Assistant Professor of Philosophy
University of Memphis

Dates and Information:

Complete submissions should include: a 2-3 page abstract, a bibliography of works cited, and a biographical sketch. All speakers will be allotted one hour for the presentation and Q&A combined. This space functions as a working space for scholars of various levels to receive feedback on their projects that will enrich Black feminist and/or womanist theoretical traditions. While this space is not closed to Black women, femmes, and non-men, it is expected that presenters focus on these groups in their submitted works-in-progress.

Forms for submitting proposals and registration can be found at roundtableforblackfeminismandwomanism.weebly.com.

Please e-mail Dr. K. Bailey Thomas at bfwroundtable@gmail.com if you have any questions.

Submissions Due: July 18th
Decisions Announced: August 8th
Full Papers Due: October 18th
